

THE COUNTY INFORMATION PROJECT
Texas Association of Counties

TEXAS COUNTIES WITH CIVIL SERVICE SYSTEMS

RESEARCH REPORT

January 16, 2004

Summary.

Ten Texas counties have established civil service systems under one or both of the systems authorized by Chapter 158 of the Local Government Code. Eight of the 20 eligible counties have county civil service systems; all seven eligible counties have sheriff's department civil service systems. Five of the seven counties using the sheriff's department system also use the county system.

Background.

Texas Local Government Code, Chapter 158, Subchapter A, §158.002 authorizes the creation of a county civil service system in counties with populations of 200,000 or more. Subchapter B, §158.032 authorizes the creation of a sheriff's department civil service system in counties with populations of more than 500,000.

Section 158.007 authorizes a county with a population of more than 1,300,000¹ that also has a county civil service system (Subchapter A) to dissolve or expand the system to cover certain employees and others not generally covered under a Subchapter A system. Section 158.039 authorizes a county to dissolve a sheriff's department civil service system (Subchapter B) after the system has been in effect for at least one year if twenty percent of the employees of the department petition the county judge to do so.

The Code Construction Act (Section 311.005, Government Code) defines "population" as the population according to the most recent federal decennial census. The most recent federal decennial census was conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau in 2000.

Analysis.

a. Eligible Counties -- 2000 Census. According to the most recent federal decennial census, twenty counties have the authority to establish a county civil service system. Seven of those counties also qualify to use the sheriff's department civil service system. The remaining thirteen counties have the authority to establish a county civil service system only.

¹ 800,000 prior to amendment in 2001.

b. Use of Chapter 158 Systems. Of the twenty counties eligible to create civil service systems, ten (50%) have established one. All seven (100%) of the counties that are eligible to establish a sheriff's department system have established that system. Only three (23%) of the remaining thirteen counties that are eligible to create county civil service, but not sheriff's department civil service, have established a county civil service system.

Chapter 158 Counties

County	Population 2000	County System ²	Sheriff's Dept. (Subchapter B) ³
Harris	3,400,578		X
Dallas	2,218,899	X	X
Tarrant	1,446,219	X	X
Bexar	1,392,931	X	X
Travis	812,280		X
El Paso	679,622	X	X
Hidalgo	569,463	X	X
Collin	491,675
Denton	432,976	X
Fort Bend	354,452
Cameron	335,227
Nueces	313,645	X
Montgomery	293,768	X
Jefferson	252,051
Galveston	250,158
Williamson	249,967
Lubbock	242,628
Brazoria	241,767
Bell	237,974
McLennan	213,517

X = System Established

Methodology:

A list of counties authorized to establish civil service systems was created using the statutory brackets and the 2000 U.S. Census populations of counties. A telephone survey was then conducted from January 9 to January 16, 2004, to determine which of the eligible counties had civil service systems. Counties with a population of more than 500,000 were asked whether they had the county civil service system, the sheriff's department civil service system, or both systems. Counties with populations of 200,000 to 500,000 were asked if they had the county-wide civil service system.

² Local Government Code, Chapter 158, Subchapter A

³ Local Government Code, Chapter 158, Subchapter B

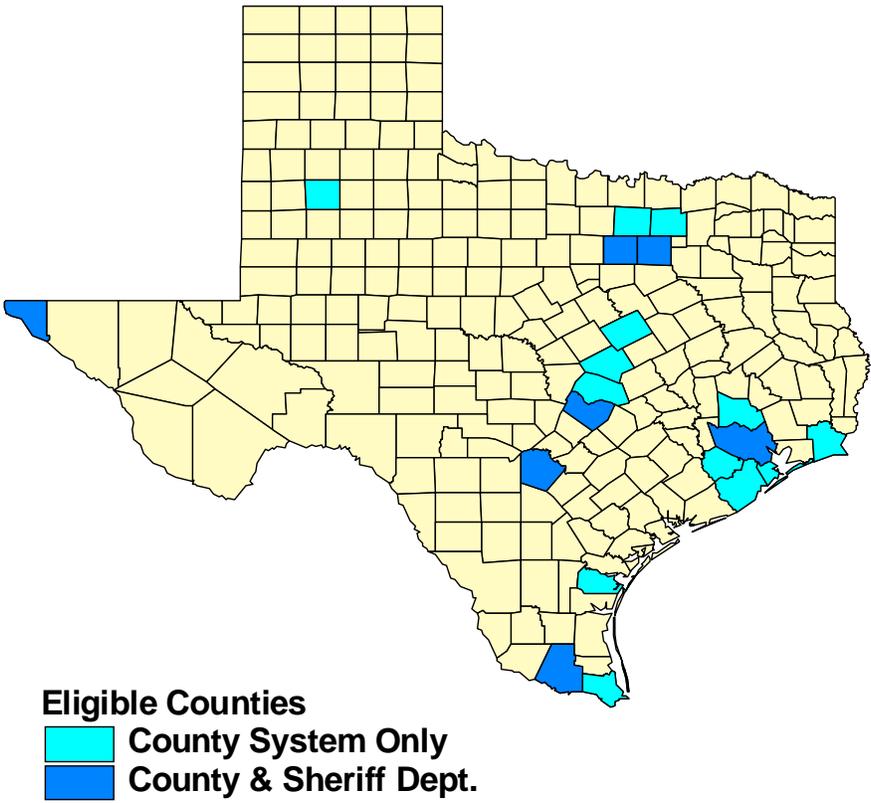

No inquiry was made relative to the utilization of the discontinuance or expansion authority provided to counties of more than 1,300,000 by Local Government Code §158.007. Nor was any inquiry made relative to the discontinuance authority provided by Local Government Code §158.039.

Data Sources and Limitations:

Population figures were from the April 2000 U.S. Census. Respondents to the telephone survey were from the Personnel/Human Resources Departments, the County Judge's office, or the County Auditor's Office of the respective counties. Although there is no reason to doubt the reliability of the responses to the telephone survey, it should be noted that the responses have not been verified by official documentation.

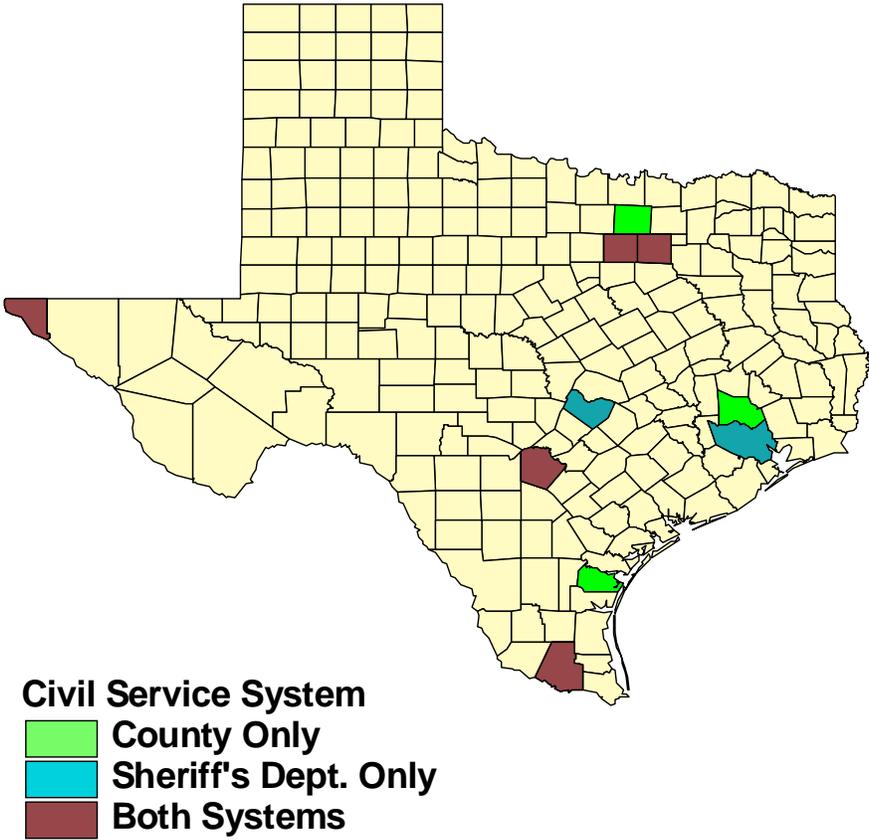

Prepared by Stan Reid and Tim Brown, The County Information Project, Texas Association of Counties, January 16, 2004. Questions or comments may be directed to (512) 478-8753 or via e-mail: stanr@county.org or timb@county.org.

Counties Eligible to Have a Civil Service System January 2004

Prepared by The County Information Project, Texas Association of Counties, January 16, 2004.
Sources: U.S. Census Bureau; Texas Local Government Code, Chapter 158.

Counties with Civil Service Systems January 2004

Prepared by The County Information Project, Texas Association of Counties, January 16, 2004.
Sources: U.S. Census Bureau; Texas Local Government Code, Chapter 158.